

CHINA SICHUAN 四川菜館

A vibrant red horse is the central focus, depicted in a dynamic, leaping pose. It is surrounded by traditional Chinese New Year decorations: two red lanterns hang from the top left, and a large, stylized red fan with a gold center is positioned behind the horse's head. The background is a deep red with a subtle, repeating pattern of gold clouds and waves. In the bottom left corner, there are several stylized red and gold flowers. The overall design is festive and celebratory.

In Chinese astrology there are 12 zodiac signs but each one is assigned to a full year rather than just one month, creating a twelve year cycle of signs: rat, ox, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake, horse, goat, monkey, rooster, dog, and pig

Horses are lovely people. Engaging, charming, and very popular, they love meeting new people, attending parties and being in the centre of the action. They like to dress well and have a distinctive style and their easy going, animated and cheerful character is very attractive to others. Horses' emotions are readily apparent as they wear their heart on their sleeve, and their outgoing & likeable nature means they are never short of friends.

Horses love travel and adventure, and have many talents and interests, but sometimes spread themselves too thin and do not have time to finish projects. They may also have a tendency to get caught up in the latest craze.

These logical and perceptive people are independent thinkers with good instincts who often do well in business. They have many talents and enjoy a challenge, but will feel humiliated by failure, but they are very brave, so they are motivated to seek success. Whilst they are decisive and strong, they may sometimes be overconfident, reckless, or impatient. They have a tendency to lose their temper easily but quickly regain balance.

Horses are very generous and considerate people with strong ethics who are always helping those less fortunate than themselves.
